Did you spot that the answers to 34 and 44 were given in question 1?

The clock was originally made for the Church and some of the workings date back to the 1700's. The original stone spire collapsed and was replaced by a wooden steeple in 1786. This combined with replacement of the church roof in years there-after, may be why the clock was moved to the Old Chapel, which is now a house, so the clock is now housed at the school.
